

The Artists

Brad Johnson & Alicia Hanson

As their personalities, lifestyles and souls melded and forged, Brad and Alicia fused a union in which the process of designing and creating jewelry together proved to be a natural expression. Participating together in the alchemy and transformation metals express when they are exposed to various elements is fascinating and awe-inspiring and they find themselves hooked.

Alicia, an environmental graphic designer by trade and jewelry designer and creator by heart, comes from a family prolific in the arts and design. Raised in bare feet on the warm sands of Hawaii she is immersed in the natural wonders of tropical and island influences. Themes of vintage tropical floral, vintage exotica, surf and Asian art can be found throughout her work. As a child Alicia spent countless hours creating jewelry and peddling it to friends. And continuing into adulthood, she spends countless hours creating jewelry and peddling it to friends and beyond.

As a hardcore surfer and skateboarder Brad has hit the pavement and waters of Southern California since childhood. Brad has a natural inclination for art and he can draw, paint, carve and build almost anything. He has an amazing ability of translating what he sees into a 2D drawing or 3D carving.

Living in San Clemente they are raising their combined four children while continuing to immerse themselves in the Low Brow Art, Hot Rod, Skateboarding and Surfing culture of the Southern California Culture that surrounds them.

Both trained at Pratt Fine Arts in Seattle and are members of SNAG.
